COMMISSIONER YEH. SWAN & CO.'S LOTTERIES!—AUTHORIZED The Moniteur de la Flotte publishes the following report of an examination of Cemmissioner Yeh on board the Inflexible, by an English officer, before the mandarin in question sailed from Hong Kong for Calcut-

. It is interesting.
"The cruelties which he practised having been alluded to, he said:--Hear me. One of the rebel chiefs was in the babit of baving all the prisoners he took from us sawn between two plants. I informed bim that I would use reprisale-have his put to death in the same way, but he bad previously had not less than 6,000 men, many of them officers, sawn between two planks. English Officer.-How many prisoners do you think you have executed. Yeh -About 60,000; but the rebels have slaughtered more than 300,000. English Officer .- You had many people put to death who had nothing to do with the insurrection. Yen - Woy, fancy. The province of Canton is a kind of refuge for all thieves or murderers in the empire who escape from justice. I saw that crimes were frequent, and therefore ordered frequent executions; but the people thus put to death were always thieves murderers, who almost invaribly confessed their crimes. English Officer .- You don't seem to have been popular in the city. Yeh -- I never discovered that I was unpopular. I know the people feared me and kept quiet. The public peace in the city was not disturbed, trade prospered, and pecple grew rich. The Emperor, my immortal master, to reward me, had conferred upon me the title Wantzio, the highest of all, and had athorized me to take the surname of Mingin-Chin. As to the reproach of having availed myself of my position to accumulate wealth, it is false. I am rich in dignities and titles, but poor in money. A great part of my income I send to my friends and relatives. In the village where I was born I had a temple built at my own expense, and have had several dwellings erected for the poor families. My enemies are chiefly in the upper classes. They wish for my downfall in order to take my place."
